Relationships as Spiritual Practice
To live, to love are signs of infinite things,
Love is a glory from eternity's spheres.

—Savitri, Complete Works of Sri Aurobindo, vols. 33–34, p. 397
FROM THE EDITORS

Relationships as Spiritual Practice 4

SOURCE MATERIAL

The Secret of Relations • SRI AUROBINDO 6
The Release from the Heart and the Mind • SRI AUROBINDO 21
Human Relations and Yoga • SRI AUROBINDO 30
Relationship with the Divine • THE MOTHER 42
The Secret of a Lasting Union • THE MOTHER 44

FEATURES

A Planetary Initiation • SEAN KELLY 8
Why Collective Yoga? • LYNDI LESTER 16

REFLECTIONS

Finding a Hallway to Harmony • RAND HICKS 26
Yoli’s Story • VISHNU ESCHNER 28

PRACTICE

Circle Work as a Tool for Collective Sadhana • SHREE HINDMAN 36
Connecting with the Psychic Being • BLUESTAR SHAMA DEERWOMON, AKA PRESTI 46

POETRY

Shakti of the Sun • MARY ‘ANGL’’ FINN 41
Savitri: The Truth of Love • SRI AUROBINDO 45
Savitri: The Finding of the Soul • SRI AUROBINDO 50
In Some Faint Dawn • SRI AUROBINDO 54

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Themes for Spring 2024, Summer 2024, and Fall 2024 52

COVER ART

Gerd Altman / Pixabay
Contributors

BLUESTAR SHAMA DEERWOMON, aka Presti, M.S. Ed., was introduced to the teachings of Sri Aurobindo and the Mother at the California Institute of Integral Studies in the early 1980s. She practices “Shamanic Improvisation: The Art of Being in the Moment and Going between the Worlds,” a practical and spiritual tool for being at one with life’s journey. She has taught at New College in Sarasota, Florida, and Hendrix College in Conway, Arizona.

VISHNU ESCHNER is a founding director of the Sri Aurobindo Sadhana Peetham in Lodi, California, and lived there from 1990 to 2009. He is a lifetime practitioner of Integral Yoga and a student of art, music, and philosophy. He has been a grateful volunteer at the Sri Aurobindo Ashram, Auroville, and Auromere, and a member and occasional president of the Sri Aurobindo Association.

RAND HICKS directs the Integral Knowledge Study Center in Pensacola, Florida. Seeking the interface where philosophy and psychology meet led him to Sri Aurobindo and his ashram in Pondicherry, India. Rand returned to America, not to complete a dissertation in an Ivy League philosophy department, but to grow a center that promotes transformative practice.

SHREE HINDMAN lives a peaceful life in the mountains above Boulder, Colorado. In 2017, she turned her home into an events/meditation center called the Mother’s Center, founded on principles of Integral Yoga. The Center offers life-enriching activities including meditation, kirtan, retreat space, and support for the birthing journey. Most of what is done is in circle format—a safe and loving way to share, be acknowledged, and enjoy the wisdom of others.

SEAN KELLY, Ph.D., is a professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies department of Philosophy, Cosmology, and Consciousness. He has taught religious studies at the University of Windsor, the University of Ottawa, and Carleton University in Canada. Sean’s area of research includes the evolution of consciousness, integral ecologies, and transpersonal and integral theory. He is the author of many books and articles. His latest book, Becoming Gaia: On the Threshold of Planetary Initiation, further develops some of the themes he discusses in this issue of Collaboration (see p. 8).

LYNDA LESTER edited Collaboration for ten years, is a past president and current board member of the Sri Aurobindo Association, and has given many presentations on Integral Yoga. A series of talks she gave called “Our Many Selves: Moving toward Mastery of Our Complex Being” is available on the Sri Aurobindo Association’s YouTube channel: https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCMH0Mxu1wEGIT4kw6OrCqsQ

DR. RITAM UPADHYAY graduated in the arts with a focus on drawing and painting, Indian classical vocal music, and English literature. She has a postgraduate degree in English literature and a doctorate in philosophy. Her research focused on the topic, “Spectrum of Consciousness in the Select Works of Sri Aurobindo with Special Reference to Savitri.” She is currently teaching in the Government Arts and Science Postgraduate College in Ratlam, Madhya Pradesh, India. Art is her gratitude towards the Divine.